"Boris XV" Delayed

We have four (Wormtongue, Morrison, K Wilson & Anderson) so far for "Boris XV" but no takers for MACHIAVELLI. Nor any confirmations for BALKAN WARS. Phil Reynolds has sent along maps and rules for African DIP, Asian DIP II, Fog of War DIP, Middle East DIP, Minimalist DIP, and Mitotic DIP. So these are now available for play here along with Balkan Wars VI DIP and Northern California DIP. So if we get six preference lists for BALKAN WARS before we get three more for "XV", we'll go with that.

Looks like Don Chinnery will win MERCHANT OF VENUS next time. KREMLIN will finish up next time barring a nasty card. Alan Bargender has expressed an interest in running SOURCE OF THE NILE. Mike Scott was hallucinating about running a second game of ADV CIV here. Then again, we could add a GUNSLINGER game.

BORIS'S BULLETIN BOARD

THOUGHT FOR THE MONTH: Our aspirations are our possibilities. --Samuel Johnson

It's been quite a month for reunions. Ms Nar flew back to her hometown of Sacramento for 5 days for a memorial service for her sister-in-law (sorry, Chris & Pete, no time to meet and thwack you). Tom Cundiff (tdcgs@yahoo.com) called to resurrect our old GUNSLINGER (GSL) pbm group, dormant now for 5 years. Ex-Boriser Pete Meyer called for the first time in 7 years -- he's now a patent lawyer for Proctor & Gamble in the Cincinnati area.

The latest ZINE REGISTER is out. See ad on p 2.

Tim Haffney, Sr (bold soul that he is) has launched a new DIP 'zine, "Who Do You Trust?" and has managed to get two issues out since I put out the last BORIS. If interested in playing, find his address on p 19 or e-address on p 18.

Corrected addresses for Stacy Ringhoffer and Rudy Zodka and a new e-address for Chad Wertz appear on pp 18 & 19.

BOOS & KUDOS

This month's Madame Boldue Press Excellence Award goes to Chris Trent for his "Napoli Shipping news article.

This month's Ms Nar Super-Sudsy Bomb is lobbed at Pete Meyer for disappearing without a trace for 7 years.

PERSONAL COMMUNICATION HERE (maybe):

Deadline for most games is 1800 CDT 6 Oct 00

MORRISON: When I picked up the Turkey position it was stagnant and doomed to a slow death. I decided to go out with a bang and threw down the gauntlet at Russia's feet hoping to stir the English and French into action and disrupt the Italian/Russian Alliance. I fully expected to hasten my own end instead I survived to write an end game statement. I had fun and the surprise Sara disclosure added a little spice to an otherwise slow game.

ANDRUSCHAK: When I was called in as a standby, my first impression of the board was that of yet another solid I/R alliance that had just finished off Austria, was working on Turkey, and would soon be turning west against the E/F/G. France seemed to be making no progress against England, so my first action as a standby was to write to England, propose a truce, and start working together on moving east. Germany quickly went under, and I proceeded to build fleets to fight Italy in the Mediterranean. The draw was a bad mistake on my part. Somehow I overlooked the proposed draws, or maybe I assumed that NVR=NO which is the standard for most zines. Sorry about that.

KANNE: "Boris XIII" died a long time ago, this was only taking it off of life support. I sure hope XIV will be better.

GM: I had this pegged as a Russian win until "Sara" joined the game and a solid E/F formed. Methinks most of the spellust left the game when Frying resigned and Boyum was eliminated. I thought the "Sara" revelation would galvanize England to attack France, but it didn't. The game ended prematurely, with England, who actually voted for the draw, poised to irrevocably snatch several Russian centers and eventually win. Chalk up the draw to "war-weariness".

the wife of one captain. "They are so afraid of those French boats in their ports. They are fools! Just give my husband a cannon on his ship and the French will never think of leaving their comfortable harbor towns." This reporter learned that this captain's ship was a wooden rowboat named the Saucy Sicilian, leading one to doubt his wife's claim.

Turkey - Britain: Such debauchery. How do you live with yourself? Did you have all the mirrors removed from your house? Rest assured that I will keep Aden safe from all manner of attack. The people of Aden love their Turkish friends.

MIRKWOOD: The Vodka Riots in the Russian Empire have evaporated following the lifting of the ban on vodka sales. The Turks, Austrians, and Brits, however, persist in rushing in troops to "reestablish order". In the West, France has managed to hold off both German and Italian forces.

EMBASSY BEAT

Austria - Russia: I see that we scared you stupid this winter. Not building is a wise move. You would have been smacked pretty good anyway. My good friend the Sultan and I are on our way to greet you, Tsar. How about if we talk it over on the shores of the Barents?

Austria - Turkey: The Tsar has soiled himself and is apparently ready for a beating. Let's do it! He doesn't know spot from snooker. If you prefer, I'll leave our light work to you.

Austria - Italy: Bene tutti fruttii.

BERLIN: How indecent of the French. All the Italians wanted to do was use the facilities of Marseilles. Baron von Graber is sending in German teachers to France to help the French learn some manners.

ITALY-AUSTRIA: Hurrah! A Russian NMR and a Turk that's ticked at him! ... Did you sell your soul or somethin'?

ITALY-GERMANY: Our only problem is angle. We can crack the French nut and be finished with it before 1903.

BORIS WORLD PRESS REVIEW

Constantinople Courier: In response to reports of Russian repression of minorities in Rumania and the threat of aggression in this area of the world the Sultan has ordered the new fleet to operations in the Black Sea to prepare to defend the homeland. The Army in Bulgaria has been dispatched to Rumania to assess that situation and the southern Army is currently training in the eastern deserts. The Sultan hopes to avoid conflict but feels these moves are necessary to protect Turkish interests and he wants to get some fresh caviar.

Napoli Shipping News: Heavy naval traffic in TYN is forcing most commercial traffic to anchorage. Although His Majesty's ministers proclaim that they are securing rightful Italian lines of passage through to the Atlantic, many locals have seen horrible drops in business. "This is a tragedy!" cried

CHINA TO JAPAN: That worked pretty well! Let's see how this works....

Holland to China: Unfortunately I'm probably not too far behind you, but I too will go down fighting the invader to my dying breath.

Holland to Japan: In case you didn't catch what I said above, you are that invader.

Holland to France: OK. Did you come to your senses or is it to be a fight to the death?

Holland to Russia: I guess you'll go before me, so maybe I'll be third.

Holland to Britain: I'm going to need your help, soon, if we are to have any hope of keeping Japan out of the Indian Ocean.

Holland to Turkey: You come this way and I'll toss my centers to Japan or France, whichever came get to them first. If you want to gain some centers, go on land. We don't need you interfering over here right now.

Turkey - Japan: Continue your good deeds. How anyone could complain about you is beyond belief. The ingrates should be spanked and sent to bed without their supper.

Turkey - China: You are definately getting reamed. A good, solid kick in the groin might be a fair comparison. Britain is the scalliwag most in need of a thumping. I will call you by your nom de guerre Wun Hung Lo.

PRESS:

The Silverton Area Railways Association announces its new policy of no-smoking on all enclosed cars of our passenger trains. For the benefit and comfort of smokers, a well ventilated cattle car will be attached to all passenger trains for their use. Those who nonetheless try to smoke in the passenger cars will have a long rope tied about their ankles with the other end attached to the back rail of the caboose, after which they will be tossed off the end of the caboose and dragged the rest of the way to the destination station. Thank you for your cooperation! Have a nice day!
